"Pressestimmen 'Thorough and clearly written.'--Stephen Baxter 'Nature "For anyone moderately interested in both James Bond and physics, this is an entertaining and relatively easy read.'--Joanna Barstow 'Observatory Magazine "Parker has a terrific idea here--to scrutinize the science of the special effects on parade in the James Bond movies.'--Eve Lichtgarn 'AssociatedContent.com "A very enjoyable book with some very well handled physics.'--John L. Hubisz 'Physics Teacher "In an entertaining narrative, Parker explores which aspects of Ian Fleming's Bond stories are scientifically sound and which are purely fiction or movie magic.'--Science News'A very successful and entirely charming book that belongs in all college libraries. Highly recommended.'--Choice'A book that's sure to appeal to teens with an interest in gadgets, cars, stunts, trick cinematography, and sports.'--School Library Journal'A fun romp with a handful of equations, charts, and diagrams.'--College and Research Libraries News Synopsis James Bond would have died a thousand deaths if not for Q, the genius behind the pen grenades and weaponized sports cars that have helped Britain's most famous secret agent cheat death in twenty films. Here Barry Parker demonstrates how science and technology have been as important to 007 as good looks, shaken martinis, and beautiful women. Using entertaining sketches and nontechnical language, Parker explains the basic physics behind the gadgets, cars, and stunts in a number of Bond films, from the jet packs in 'Thunderball' to the dynamics of daredevil bungee jumping in 'Goldeneye'. If you've ever wondered whether the laser could have actually cut Bond in half ('Goldfinger'), if a wristwatch could really unzip a woman's dress ('Live and Let Die'), or whether your car could do the 360-degree barrel roll from 'Man with the Golden Gun', this book is for you. Top 5 Bond Stunts of All Time: Q and His 'Amazing' Devices; The Bond Cars in All Their Glory; Moonraker and Bond in Space; The Walther PPK and the Ballistics of Bond; and The Neptune and Battles Aquatic.
