According to scientific research, this is the amount of vocabulary needed for varying levels of fluency: • 250 words: the essential core of a language. Without these words, you cannot construct sentences. • 750 words: those that are used every single day by every person who speaks the language. • 2,500 words: those that should enable you to express everything you could possibly want to say, although some creativity might be required. • 5,000 words: the active vocabulary of native speakers without higher education. You will understand about 90% of all written text. • 10,000 words: the active vocabulary of native speakers with higher education. • 20,000 words: the amount you need to recognize passively in order to read, understand, and enjoy a work of literature such as a novel by a notable author. Keeping above facts in mind, the value of a frequency dictionary is immense. At least, if you want to become fluent in a language fast. Study the most frequent words, build your vocabulary and progress naturally. What is Inside This Book?A frequency word list of the most frequently used Polish words, based on analysis of a large collection of Polish subtitles. A large base text collection is absolutely vital in order to establish a reliable general frequency list. Subtitles have the advantage of corresponding both to written and spoken language.
